Case Management Module

PureOHS™ is UL's solution for making case management easy. As injuries occur in the workplace, federal and state governments require that companies document what happened and provide that documentation back to the appropriate agencies. Reporting and tracking injuries is usually a manual process and companies who report improperly may be subject to government imposed penalties.

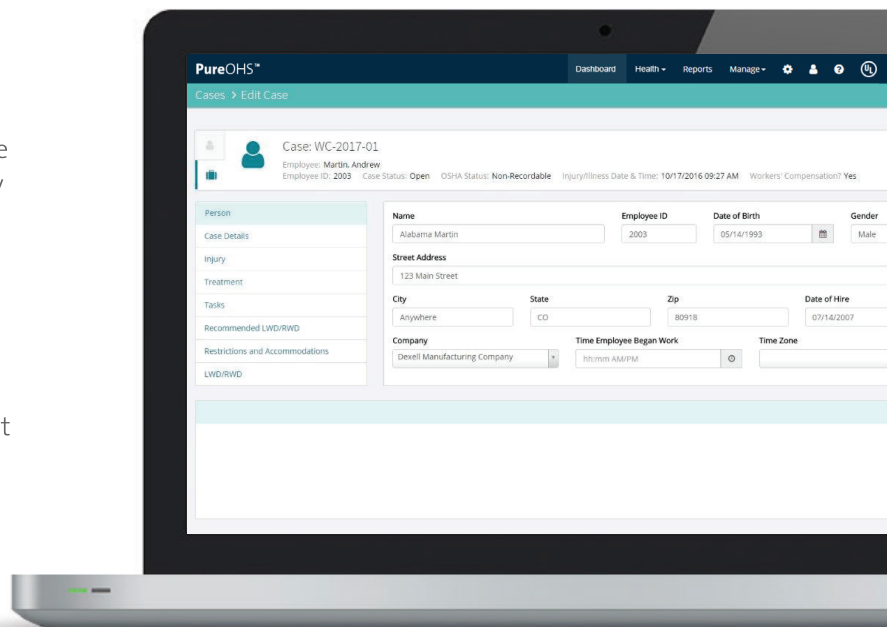

With a complete case manager toolset, companies can manage injured employees back to work safety and efficiently while streamlining communication across the organization.

Managing the process of restricted work duty or time off is important so that workers can return as quickly and safely as is practical (the faster they come back, the lower the cost to the company).

As a web-based system, PureOHS is available on any device, including iPads and other tablets. Installation is simply opening the browser on the device and logging into the application. No IT support is necessary and you can use it wherever you need.

Key benefits

- Integrated regulatory reporting to quickly and accurately complete forms
- Fast implementation
- Track restrictions and accommodations to understand which employees are on restricted duty and track lost days to account for costs associated with injuries
