Build a better workplace safety training program with PureSafety® powered by LearnShare®
Safety training is about more than meeting regulatory requirements — it’s about keeping your employees safe and preventing as many incidents and accidents as possible. To properly manage your safety performance, you need the right tools.

Mitigate more operational risks and identify safety improvement opportunities

UL’s learning management system (LMS), PureSafety®, powered by LearnShare®, coupled with our award-winning safety training library, helps you improve safety and health, while maintaining productivity.

With PureSafety, you’ll find it easy to define training requirements to ensure that each person receives the appropriate instruction, based on job role, location and more.

For employees who require OSHA 10- and 30-hour training, PureSafety is one of the only OSHA-authorized online training providers on the market.

With PureSafety you benefit from:

- Provides a modern learning experience, including video, live, and virtual instruction.
- Traditional learning modalities such as SCORM, assessments, and read and sign.
- A mobile friendly LMS, which runs on virtually any device.
- Interactive dashboards, reports, manager tools and automated notifications.
- Rapid implementation.
- Safety library courses ready to use right off-the-shelf, or you can modify them and add your own courses and third-party content to your library.
- Our QR code feature allows you to provide job aids and safety tips to people on the job.
- The ability to award portable, digital badges for completion of safety training.
- Easy integration with other systems, such as HR and document management systems and business intelligence tools.

Online safety course library

Give your employees the opportunity to attain the skills and knowledge they need to help them be productive and safe on the job. Collaborate with UL to provide your employees with e-learning content from regulatory-based safety training to employee health best practices and more.

UL can help you meet your organization’s training needs with our comprehensive, up-to-date library of hundreds of online EHS topics. Select courses from UL’s EHS catalog, modify our existing off-the-shelf trainings or let us create custom content to meet your organization’s objectives.

Stay on top of your organization’s safety standing with PureSafety

PureSafety’s dashboards show your organization’s history of completing assignments on time and its current standing in terms of meeting required training deadlines. Its interactive features let you quickly uncover the root causes of problems or successes. For example, while comparing multiple facilities, you might discover that a specific plant has an excessive amount of overdue training. Filtering down to that plant, you might see that the problem is isolated to people in a specific department. Or, by viewing a trend chart, you might notice that after a long history of meeting training deadlines on time, performance has slipped in recent months. The charts and graphs in a dashboard can be exported into PDF, Excel and PowerPoint formats in order to support presentations.

How can you make the most of our extensive video content?

In today’s world, informative video is everywhere: on your company’s network, on YouTube and even on people’s phones. With PureSafety, you and your employees can learn in new ways to maximize effectiveness. Rely on PureSafety to help you:

- Upload videos and turn them into assignable learning resources.
- Automatically transcribe, closed caption and translate into multiple languages in order to make videos useful to people from a variety of backgrounds.
- Provide searchable transcripts to let users quickly find the content they need. For example, if you offer an hour-long video from your recent safety workshop, a user can quickly jump ahead to the part in which ladder safety is demonstrated.
- Link videos from YouTube, Vimeo and other sources and assign them to learners, along with completion tracking.
- Assure employees a high-performance video streaming experience no matter where they are with PureSafety’s international content delivery network (CDN) of locations.
